

Window Replacement Saves Money in More Ways Than One

Window replacement may not be first on your list of home improvements, but right now it should be somewhere at the top. If you have planned on updating your home, window replacement can offer you additional comfort, security and most importantly, money.

The savings right now when you replace your windows is in the energy bill as well as in the tax credit you receive. The federal tax credits available for updated energy efficiency include a rebate of 30% of the cost of your windows up to $1,500.00. In addition to the tax credit that is available, you will also see a savings on your energy bill.

Upgrading your windows to a higher efficiency can produce savings from $57.00 to $460.00 per year depending on what you replace. Not only will you see savings and benefits, but also it is one of the best investments you can make in your home.

R. K. Krahn Construction Co in Washougal, WA can help you through this process providing window replacement affordably and seamlessly. With their experience working on all styles of architecture and with the input from their supplier's sales staff, they will help you to choose the best windows for your home.

Unlike many window replacement contractors who only offer one or two different makes of windows, R.K. Krahn Construction Co. offers window and exterior door products from several manufacturers. This assures that you will get the best style, performance and features for your home at a price that meets your budget. Companies whose products they recommend include: Milgard and JeldWen for vinyl, Anderson and Marvin for composite plastic and fiberglass, and Sierra Pacific, Marvin and Pella for clad wood. Each of these companies has several product lines to choose from. All these companies are well established in the industry and offer lifetime service and product support.

R.K. Krahn Construction Co. does not believe in the pressure sales tactics used by some of the large replacement companies. If you have been solicited by telemarketers or door to door canvassers be aware you may encounter sales techniques that attempt to rush your decision by offering "today only" discounts to discourage you from getting other bids. These sales methods guarantee that you'll have limited choices and pay too much. R.K. Krahn Construction Co. takes the time to help you select the best products for your home, gives you the best possible price and then lets you take the time to make an informed decision.
